

JAMES C. HAGERTY, PRESS SECRETARY TO THE PRESIDENT

THE WHITE HOUSE

The President announced today that he is planning to send to the Senate for confirmation the nomination of:

Allen Welsh Dulles as Director of Central Intelligence.

Mr. Dulles' name will not be forwarded to the Senate, however, until the Senate has completed action on the nomination of General Walter Bedell Smith, the present Director, as Under Secretary of State.

When the Senate completes action on Mr. Dulles' nomination, the President announced that he would designate Lieutenant General Charles Pearre Cabell, now Director of the Joint Staff, the Pentagon, as Deputy Director of the Central Intelligence Agency -- a post now held by Mr. Dulles.

Mr. Dulles became Deputy Director of CIA in August, 1951. He was in charge of OSS operations in Central Europe during World War II with headquarters in Switzerland. He has had long experience in the intelligence field, and in the State Department. An attorney, he is 59 years old and lives at 1308 Twenty-ninth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Mrs. Dulles is at present in Japan where their son, Lieutenant Allen M. Dulles, United States Marine Corps, is in a military hospital as the result of serious wounds received in combat in Korea.

General Cabell also has had long experience in intelligence activities and is a former Director of Intelligence of the United States Air Forces. He was graduated from the United States Military Academy, West Point, New York, in 1925; he is 49 years old and lives at 2506 Fort Scott Drive, Arlington, Virginia. He attended the London conference of the United Nations in 1944, and was Air representative of the United States on the Military Staff Committee of the United Nations in New York. He was director of operations and intelligence of the Mediterranean Allied Air Forces in 1944-45.

Brief biographies of Mr. Dulles and of General Cabell are attached.
